

JACQUELINE HANTGAN

Associate

Jacqueline Hantgan specializes in investment sales. She works on Tanel Harunzade's team, widely considered premier high street retail experts in the entire Southern California region. Representing clients in the acquisition and disposition of strip centers, anchored shopping centers, single-tenant investment assets and urban redevelopment centers, her people-first approach is simple but effective in identifying her clients' needs and addressing their concerns, ultimately enhancing the value of their transactions by minimizing risk and reducing cost.

Prior to joining Kidder Mathews, Jacqueline has decades of experience working in fundraising and education, two areas she feels passionate about and remains highly active in. Recently working in the field of mediation promoting communication and conflict resolution, these skills enable her to serve her clients well.

Jacqueline graduated from Tulane University with a BA in anthropology and continued her studies at Teachers College, Columbia University with a MA in anthropology and education. She is currently pursuing a program in alternative dispute resolution at Pepperdine Caruso School of Law. Jacqueline and her husband live in Los Angeles and have three fantastic daughters.
